Prospective renters should be aware that the Museum's primary function is as an organization for historic preservation. The offer of rental of its facilities is extended as a courtesy and the rental fees are nominal relative to other venues. The Museum is not a totally child friendly amusement park and will not pad every sharp edge, install handrails , and make hundreds of other modifications to strive for absolute safety. To do so would compromise the living history character of the depot and its surroundings. All visitors must be constantly aware of their surroundings and be risk averse. Adults should closely monitor children's actions to avoid possible accident and injury. If there is doubt about which facilities may be entered or what is potentially unsafe, ask the museum members known to you.
